ABOUT THIS GUIDE

At the Grand Canyon Association, we think the canyon is one of the most spectacular places on earth. We are excited you are thinking about visiting, and we want to help you make the most of your Grand Canyon experience. We have developed this guide to introduce you to the wonder that Grand Canyon National Park holds in store for you.

This guide is intended to provide general information that you may find useful as you plan a visit. It is not intended to be the only resource with which you plan your trip. There is an abundance of helpful materials, some of which are available in our online store.

GRAND CANYON ASSOCIATION

Grand Canyon Association is the official nonprofit partner of Grand Canyon National Park. Federal dollars support baseline operations and activities at Grand Canyon National Park. However, these funds do not cover other needs of the park, including wildlife research, trail preservation and educational programs for the public. That's why our mission is to raise private funds to benefit the park through the support of members, donors and visitors like you.

As you begin planning a trip, it's the perfect time to consider joining the Grand Canyon Association. You will enjoy wonderful benefits that will enhance your experience with the Grand Canyon, like a 15% discount for trip planning kits, maps, books, gear, clothes, gifts and more, both online and at GCA stores in the park. You'll also receive a 10% discount at lodge gift shops at Grand Canyon National Park and discounts on most Grand Canyon Field Institute classes and early registration opportunities. But the best part for most of our members is the satisfaction of knowing we are preserving this iconic park together, for generations to come! www.grandcanyon.org/join

ABOUT GRAND CANYON NATIONAL PARK

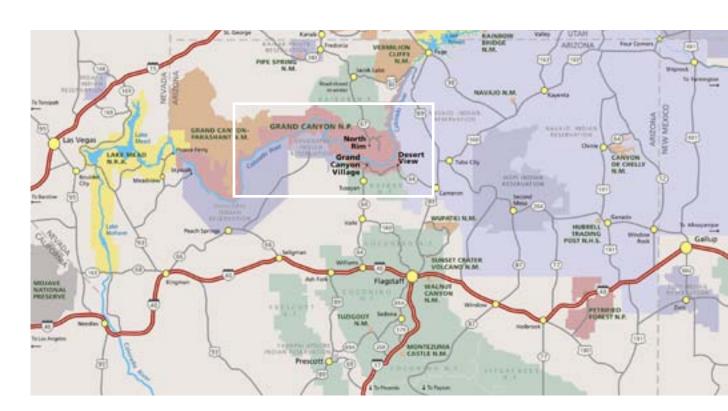

Grand Canyon National Park spans 277 miles of the Colorado river and adjacent uplands. It is located entirely in northern Arizona.

Most visitors (90%) choose to see Grand Canyon National Park from the overlooks along the South Rim. The South Rim, which is the most accessible part of the park, includes historic Grand Canyon Village, Hermit Road, and Desert View Drive. The South Rim is open all year long, even on holidays.

A much smaller number of people (10%) see the canyon from the North Rim of the park. The North Rim lies just 10 miles across the canyon from the South Rim, but it is a 220 mile, or approximately 4.5 hour drive by car, all the way around the canyon. It has a shorter season, with lodging and restaurants that are open from May 15 through October 15 each year.

GETTING TO THE PARK

Airports and Drive Times

There are several ways to arrive at Grand Canyon National Park. Many visitors fly into Phoenix, Arizona, and Las Vegas, Nevada. There are also limited flights arriving in Flagstaff, Arizona. You will need to rent a car from these airports or reserve a shuttle to the park from Phoenix or Flagstaff.

Drive time to South Rim

Phoenix, AZ 231 miles/approximately 3.5 hours Las Vegas, NV 278 miles/approximately 4 hours Flagstaff, AZ 81 miles/approximately 1.5 hours

Free Shuttle Bus Service

From Outside the Canyon

The Tusayan Route provides free direct shuttle bus service, between the gateway community of Tusayan and the Grand Canyon Visitor Center from mid May to early September. Tusayan, Arizona, is located 7 miles south of Grand Canyon Village on the South Rim and free shuttle buses operate on several routes.

When boarding the bus, you do not need a ticket but you must present a valid park entrance pass. Entrance passes may be purchased at park entrances or at various businesses in Tusayan.

Within the Canyon

There are several free shuttle routes within Grand Canyon National Park connecting lodges, campgrounds, restaurants and shops with Market Plaza, the Visitors Center and Grand Canyon Association Park Store.

Park Hours and Seasonality

Park Entrances: Open 24 hours a day

North Rim Facilities: Open mid-May and close in mid-October

Desert View Campground: May 1st through mid-October

South Rim Facilities and Grand Canyon Village: Open all year

While park entrances are open 24 hours a day, stations are not always manned.

Accessibility

Many of the facilities at Grand Canyon are historic and were built before current accessibility standards were set. The terrain is rugged with narrow, rocky trails and steep cliffs. Visitors using wheelchairs or who have visual impairments may need assistance. www.nps.gov/grca/planyourvisit/accessibility.htm

Reduce, Reuse, Refill!

Did you know that disposable plastic bottles at one time comprised an estimated 20% of Grand Canyon's waste stream and 30 percent of the park's recyclables? In 2012, in order to reduce plastic waste originating at the canyon, litter along trails and walkways, and greenhouse gas emissions, Grand Canyon National Park eliminated the sale of water packaged in individual disposable containers.

So remember to bring a reusable water bottle or buy one at any Grand Canyon Association Park Store when you arrive. Water refilling stations are located throughout the park for your convenience.

Pets

Pets are permitted in the park if leashed, but not below the rim, in park lodging, inside buildings or on buses, with the exception of service animals. People who want to take a service animal below the rim must check in at the Backcountry Information Center.

There is a kennel for dogs and cats at the South Rim, open 7:30 a.m.-5:00 p.m. daily. www.nps.gov/grca/planyourvisit/pets.htm

LODGING INSIDE THE PARK

South Rim Lodging

A variety of historic lodges, motels and hotels are located right inside Grand Canyon National Park. From the historic El Tovar Hotel and Bright Angel Lodge to the more modern Maswick, Thunderbird and Yavapai Lodges, the park offers a perfect place from which to base your time at the canyon.

Xanterra Parks & Resorts: www.grandcanyonlodges.com

Delaware North Corporation Parks & Resorts: www.visitgrandcanyon.com/

North Rim Lodging

The Grand Canyon Lodge is the only lodging inside Grand Canyon National Park on the North Rim. Located at Bright Angel Point, the lodge offers comfortable guest rooms and cabins.

Forever Resorts: grandcanyonforever.com/lodging/?keyword=lodging

Lodging Below the Rim

Phantom Ranch is the only Grand Canyon lodging below the rim. The Ranch can only be reached by mule, by foot or by rafting the Colorado River.

Phantom Ranch: www.grandcanyonlodges.com/lodging/phantom-ranch

Follow these tips to help ensure a stay near the rim.

- Plan early book a room at Grand Canyon up to a year in advance.
- Time your trip after a major holiday. Generally the two-week period after a holiday is less crowded. In summer, the best availability is during the first two weeks of June (after Memorial Day) or the first two weeks of September (after Labor Day). The last two weeks of August see fewer travelers. January is the slowest month of the year, followed by November and February.
- Try for last-minute cancellations.
 Many travelers reserve rooms ahead of time then cancel at the last minute, freeing up rooms.
- Stay in Tusayan. The town of Tusayan adjoins Grand Canyon's South Rim.
- Try the off-season. Consider a winter excursion to enjoy smaller crowds, a frosting of snow on the rim, brilliant early sunsets and great photo opportunities.

CAMPING IN THE PARK

National Park Service campgrounds are available on both the North and South Rims of Grand Canyon National Park. They offer large sites, fire/BBQ pits, picnic tables, potable water, and are adjacent to showers and laundry facilities. They're a great place to unwind.

There are many ways you can experience tribal culture at Grand Canyon National Park:

- Desert View Watchtower was constructed in 1932 as a replica of a prehistoric Indian tower. It commands a magnificent view of the Grand Canyon, the Painted Desert to the east and the San Francisco Peaks to the south. The interior walls of the tower feature murals by Hopi artist Fred Kabotie.
- Tusayan Ruin and Museum provides a glimpse of Pueblo Indian life some 800 years ago. Tusayan Ruin is located 3 miles west of Desert View.
- Hopi House, built by Mary Colter, opened in 1905. This Pueblo-style building features a large selection of authentic Native American handicrafts and a Native American art gallery. Hopi dancers put on a demonstration seasonally at Hopi House plaza.
- American Indian Heritage Days annually honors Grand Canyon's original inhabitants in the month of August. The event has grown over the years to include a variety of presenters from Grand Canyon's Traditionally Associated Tribes.

LODGING OUTSIDE THE PARK

Tusayan

There are a number of options for lodging near but not in Grand Canyon National Park. Tusayan, 7 miles south of Grand Canyon Village, has a number of hotels and is a great place to stay if all the in-park lodging is full.

Options include:

Flagstaff, Williams and Sedona

There are also several communities located within two hours of the park including Flagstaff (1.5 hours), Williams (1 hour), and Sedona (2 hours). Consider staying in one of these towns if you plan to visit more than one park or attraction while in northern Arizona.

For more information about staying in Flagstaff, visit www.flagstaffarizona.org

For more information about staying in Sedona, visit www.grandcanyoncvb.org/rsedona

HIKING

Many people choose to hike in Grand Canyon to create lasting memories and enriching experiences. There is some danger due to temperatures in the summer and hypothermia or slippery trail accidents in the winter, so be sure to thoroughly research each trail you're thinking of hiking. There is information about elevation changes, water availability, rest rooms, distances and stopping points on the national park website or in the NPS trip planning guide. www.nps.gov/grca/parknews/upload/trip-planner-grca.pdf

Hike Smart

Know your abilities and choose an appropriate hike.

You will be hiking at high elevation in hot, dry desert conditions with a steep climb out at the end of the day. Everyone who hikes in the canyon for the first time reports that it was more difficult than they expected. Be conservative in planning your hike! Stay within your training, physical limitations, and abilities. Learn more about hiking safely at Grand Canyon, here www.nps.gov/grca/planyourvisit/hike-tips.htm

OTHER POPULAR ACTIVITIES

With close to five million visitors annually, Grand Canyon National Park draws individuals with a wide range of recreational and educational needs. While planning your desired activities you should take into consideration a number of factors including your level of fitness, familiarity with the outdoors, length of visit, budget, and whether you're coming to learn, relax, recreate, find solitude, make new friends, or a combination thereof. Popular activities include:

River Trips

Many commercial companies offer trips to raft the Colorado River through Grand Canyon, with options for a diversity of time frames and budgets, from several days to several weeks.

For a list of companies licensed to provide multiday whitewater rafting trips within Grand Canyon National Park, visit the Grand Canyon River Outfitters Association: www.gcroa.org

Backpacking

Backpacking is a great way to experience the canyon, but is imperative that you come well prepared. If you are backpacking for the first time, we highly recommend that you read a backpacking book and/or find some informational videos online in advance. Additionally, Grand Canyon National Park requires permits for all overnight backcountry camping including hiking, horseback riding, cross-country ski trips, off-river hikes by rivertrip members, and camping at rim sites other than developed campgrounds. Day hiking, day horseback riding, river trips, mule trips and overnight stays in dorms or cabins at Phantom Ranch do not need permits.

www.nps.gov/grca/planyourvisit/backcountry-permit.htm

Venturing Below the Rim

If you plan a hike that involves staying overnight at one of the many backcountry areas of Grand Canyon, you must obtain a permit. Some tips that may help you obtain a permit:

- Familiarize yourself with the Grand Canyon National Park Backcountry Use Area Map to choose trails and campsites.
- Get your permit first, then book your airline and lodging reservations.
- Be flexible on dates. Tell the rangers you will accept alternate dates and alternate trip lengths.
- Submit your permit request as early as possible – up to four months prior to the desired start date for your trip
- Specify more than one possible itinerary for a better chance for a permit.
- Be flexible on trails. If possible, tell the rangers you will accept alternate trail choices.
- Consider a Grand Canyon
 Field Institute trip to learn more about the canyon from expert guides. Let them do the planning and permitting for you! Go to https://www.grandcanyon.org/learn/grand-canyon-field-institute for more information or to place a permit request.

Bicycle Rentals

Many people enjoy seeing the spectacular sights at the Grand Canyon while bike riding, which is considered one of the top ways to see Grand Canyon National Park. Bright Angel Bicycles offers bike rentals, stroller rentals and maps of bike routes to give you options for cruising the canyon on wheels. www.bikegrandcanyon.com

Guided Hiking Trips, Backpacking Classes and Tours

If you're interested in an educational guided hiking trip or tour on the South or North Rim during your Grand Canyon stay, consider the Grand Canyon Field Institute. Offering everything from single-day classes and tours to multi-day backpacks to river rafting, this program of the Grand Canyon Association serves thousands of visitors each year. For more on the Grand Canyon Field Institute, visit:

www.grandcanyon.org/learn/grandcanyon-field-institute

Mule Rides

You can experience the Canyon the way many of the area's first tourists did in the early 1900's. Mule trips make daily excursions and overnight trips into the canyon. Xanterra Parks and Resorts offers two guided rides using this time-honored method of canyon transportation with the sure-footed mule. For more information, visit: www.grandcanyonlodges.com/things-to-do/mule-trips

Air Tours

If you're interested in experiencing a view of Grand Canyon from above, there are companies that offer helicopter and fixed-wing tours. All scenic air tours originate from Grand Canyon Airport in Tusayan, Arizona, outside the South Rim of the park. For a full listing of companies offering air tours, visit:

www.azdot.gov/about/GrandCanyonAirport/tour-operators

GRAND CANYON FIELD INSTITUTE

Grand Canyon Field Institute is a program of the Grand Canyon Association, the official nonprofit park partner, and serves thousands of Grand Canyon visitors each year. We offer fun and informative educational classes and guided hiking tours for everyone, from seasoned backpackers to families with children on their first visit to Grand Canyon.

Day Hike Classes and Tours

One-Day Classes and Tours are perfect for individuals, families and small groups with limited time who want an engaging insider's tour of the South Rim and its famous trails.

On day hikes, overnight backcountry treks and rim-based learning adventures, you'll share the wonders of Grand Canyon with Field Institute experts!

SEASONAL INFORMATION

When it comes to weather at the Grand Canyon, we recommend that you expect the unexpected! Weather conditions vary greatly at the Grand Canyon, so be prepared for all conditions in all seasons.

Summer

During the summer, visitors can experience dramatic changes in temperatures. Excessive heat in the canyon can be dangerous or fatal during the day, while at night you may want a jacket. Monsoonal weather patterns also bring swift and sudden rainfall with the threat of flooding, so stay alert for warnings.

Fall and Spring

These transition months bring a variety of weather conditions. Seasonable temperatures make these times more suitable for hiking and overnight camping, and it may take more time to obtain permits. Snow may appear on the rims in October. In late April and May, it is often windy.

Winter

The park plows South Rim roads, but the North Rim closes with the first heavy snowfall. With significant snow, temporary closures of the South Rim may occur as well.

| Season | Average Rim Temperatures | | Average Inner Canyon Temperatures | |
|-------------|--------------------------|------|-----------------------------------|-------|
| Summer | 40°F | 84°F | 92°F | 106°F |
| Spring/Fall | 29°F | 65°F | 56°F | 84°F |
| Winter | 18°F | 41°F | 36°F | 56°F |

Dangerous Conditions

Summer storms bring dangerous lightning to the rim, and floods and falling rocks to the Grand Canyon.

If you plan on hiking, be prepared! While many hikes are initially easy with a downhill path, unprepared hikers may experience illness, injury or death if the temperatures or path conditions lead to dangers.

In any season, stay aware of weather conditions and park alerts to ensure your comfort and safety.

ATTRACTIONS OUTSIDE THE PARK

There are several areas visitors might want to see while on a trip to Arizona and the Grand Canyon. These areas are not a part of Grand Canyon National Park so you should plan extra time on your trip if you want to these other attractions.

Havasupai Indian Reservation

Havasu Canyon, a side canyon located in western Grand Canyon, is home to the Havasupai Indian Reservation and beautiful Havasu Falls. Outside the boundaries of the national park, the Havasu Trail can be reached from Arizona Highway 18. Havasupai tribal lands include a large tributary canyon on the south side of the Colorado River, approximately 190 miles (310 km) west of Grand Canyon Village. Many feel that Havasu Canyon's blue-green waterfalls are some of the most stunning in the world. Access the Village of Supai by an 8-mile (13 km) hike or horse ride.

To obtain a hiking permit or make reservations at the lodge at Supai:

The Skywalk at Grand Canyon West

Located west of Grand Canyon National Park, the Skywalk is a glass walkway that protrudes about 70 feet over the rim. The Skywalk, which is on the Hualapai Indian Reservation, is a Hualapai Tribal business located 250 miles from the South Rim and 90 miles from Las Vegas, Nevada. The Hualapai Tribe collects fees to enter any part of the reservation, which are subject to change at any time. Food service is limited, usually as part of a package tour.
